

The 8 Dimensions of Leadership

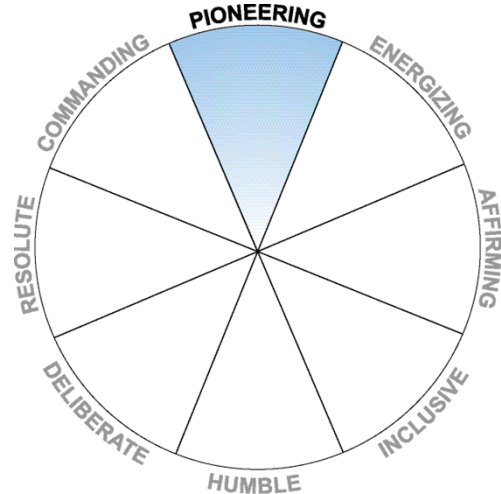

DiSC® Strategies for Becoming a Better Leader

Prepared for: Susan Stamm

Your Primary Leadership Dimension is: Pioneering

Pioneering leaders want to drive the group toward results, to share their passion and energy, and, more than anything, to keep things moving at a rapid pace. These achievement-oriented leaders exude an air of confidence and authority, and they tend to set lofty goals for both themselves and the group. They want to be seen as inspirational, and they often enjoy the challenge of rallying people together to work toward a shared vision. They're charismatic leaders who work hard to gain alignment with the people they need to get the job done. Pioneering leaders are often willing to take risks, to seek out new opportunities, and to make rapid changes.

How to Navigate the Book Based on Your Responses

- Read Part 1: The 8 Dimensions of Leadership Model.
- Take a deeper dive into your primary dimension in Chapter 3, “The Pioneering Leader.”
- Learn the leadership lessons that are most relevant to you in Chapter 16, “Lessons from Deliberate Leaders,” Chapter 17, “Lessons from Resolute Leaders,” and Chapter 19, “Pulling it all Together.”
